AT A GLANCE

Screening summary

These statuses organise follow-up. They do not state that a product is safe, unsafe, compliant or non-compliant.

10	4	5	0	1
products screened	priority evidence checks	scope or evidence reviews	insufficient listings	no text indicator

DEFINED SCOPE

What this preflight covered

Listing text and visible public-page material were reviewed against four selected Australian product-safety areas. The screen does not cover every product rule.

BUTTON AND COIN BATTERIES	INFANT SLEEP PRODUCTS
Possible inclusion, access, packaging and warning questions.	Possible sleep-purpose products, warnings and evidence gaps.
TOPPLING FURNITURE	PRODUCTS WITH MAGNETS
Possible furniture scope, construction, dimensions and warning questions.	Possible loose, separable or toy-magnet questions.

DECISION GUIDE

How to use each status

Priority evidence check Inspect the exact product and supporting evidence. Consider supply controls while the question remains unresolved.	Scope or evidence review Close the information gap and obtain exact-product evidence before a compliance decision.
Insufficient listing information Obtain enough exact-product information to perform the four-area screen. Do not infer that no rule applies.	No text indicator No indicator was generated in the four areas. Images, variants, recalls and other rules may still need review.

AFTER DELIVERY

What the merchant does next

The report narrows the questions. It does not make the merchant's supply decision.

01	Review priority items first. Confirm the exact product and consider appropriate supply controls while a material question remains unresolved.
02	Request exact-product evidence. The merchant requests and stores supplier evidence in its own systems. Evidence review is outside this no-cost public-page pilot.
03	Record the decision and basis. Seek qualified testing, product-safety or legal advice where the evidence or applicable requirements remain uncertain.

Important limits

This report is a catalogue and public-listing preflight. It cannot verify physical construction, test results, packaging, labelling, supplier records or whether the information is complete.

A screening indicator is a prompt for evidence and human review, not a finding of non-compliance. A no-text-indicator result means only that no indicator was generated within the four covered areas.

This is general workflow information. It is not product certification, legal advice, laboratory assessment, continuous monitoring or a guarantee of safety or compliance.
